Attorney drops out of lawsuit

CONFLICT ANTICIPATED by a Granite City assistant attorney resulted in his decision to stop being involved in a lawsuit. Charles Douglas would have been representing the city and a person who planned to file a suit against the city and the city's housing authority. Douglas was to represent Misty Aitken, a Kirkpatrick Homes resident who has filed a notice of injury. According to Douglas, Aitken came to him and asked him to file the complaint in September 1984, before he was given the post of assistant city attorney. He said he was legally bound to file the notice.

Assessment deal causes concern

THE ASSESSMENT DEAL between Granite City Steel and local taxing bodies has left the Granite City School Board president disappointed. President Kelly Hogan said he wished the negotiated figures would have been closer to figures obtained in an appraisal done by William Townsley of Chicago. Townsley's figures put Granite City Steel's potential assessed valuation at $98 million for the plant in 1985, 82 percent more than the negotiated figure of $54 million. However, the settlement will mean the company will pay more taxes, with the valuations being $57 million for 1984 and $60 million for 1985.

School board member not running

RE-ELECTION will not be sought by Granite City School Board member Tom Miosky, 37. Miosky, a board member since 1975, decided not to seek another term so he can spend more time with his family, he said.

Asbestos removal planned at school

ASBESTOS REMOVAL is planned in a Venice school. Within the next few days, asbestos will be removed from the Venice Elementary School's 1954 addition, said Robert N. Vickers, district superintendent. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency notified the district in June it was one of three school districts in Illinois to get a grant to remove asbestos. The district was given a $76,375 grant and a comparable interest-free loan to remove the material. Breathing asbestos fibers can lead to lung cancer, scarred lungs and other diseases.

Former bank chairman dies

A BANKING GIANT in Granite City, Paul H. Lichtenberger, 79, died last week in Warsaw, Ill. Lichtenberger retired as chairman of the First Granite City National Bank and the Colonial Bank of Granite City. He is believed to have died from smoke inhalation in his Warsaw home, which was extensively damaged by fire. Lichtenberger was also past president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, Sunset Hills Country Club and Group 9 of the Illinois Bankers Association. He also served as past exalted ruler of the Granite City Elks Lodge and was known for his charitable activities for the Tri-Cities Area United Way and the Salvation Army Tree of Lights.

Shots fired to stop vehicle

SHOTS WERE FIRED to stop a driver following a traffic accident on Illinois 3 last week. A car driven by Dale W. Hill, 21, of Bryon, Texas, was reportedly involved in a traffic accident with two cars, one driven by Mary L. Herzling, and Carl M. Pashoff, 70. Hill is said to have tried to leave the accident scene and he was reportedly fired at by a passenger in Herzling's car, Larry Herzling. The car driven by Hill was reportedly stolen. The accident occurred on Illinois 3 at Broadway in Venice.

Quote of the week

"THEY DON'T REALIZE some of us have worked many long nights for their benefit." This quote is from Bernice Hagnauer, an employee of Granite City Township. She made the comment after questions were raised about the legality of her being a township employee working under her husband, Nellie, the township supervisor.

Hagnauer meets with seniors

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Senior citizen concerns were addressed before a crowd of more than 300 persons by Township Supervisor Nellie Hagnauer Monday night.

Hagnauer started off the meeting by addressing comments made in a newspaper article that appeared in the Sunday Press-Record/Journal.

IN THE ARTICLE, senior citizens complained they asked repeatedly to meet with Hagnauer but he did not meet with them.

Hagnauer corrected their statement.

"I agreed to meet with the seniors earlier this year and I met with them for 1 1/2 hours," he said. "The lady (Gertrude Boskey) who made the statement that I had something to hide' because I wouldn't meet with the seniors was at the meeting — she was taking notes."

HAGNAUER WENT ON to address a list of senior questions that appeared in Sunday's edition.

He first addressed the bids for the town garage. Hagnauer said bids were sought for a garage because the township has between $110,000 and $115,000 in motor vehicle equipment.

Fourteen bids were received on the garage and the bids were opened by the architect who designed the structure, he said. The low bid on the project was approved by the Town Board.

He next addressed the use of the township buses for senior events.

THE SUPERVISOR said township buses may only be used for township sponsored events. A senior trip earlier this year to Six Flags was not township sponsored and, therefore, township buses could not be used, he said.

Town board members were supplied with a log of the use of the township buses since February 1984. The log shows an average of 2,000 elderly residents make use of the buses each month for various activities, including shopping and personal trips, medical-related trips and nutrition-related trips.

"I also read in the paper people are saying there aren't enough programs for senior citizens," Hagnauer said.

"FEDERAL MONIES for some programs have been cut out, so some programs have been cancelled. But there are still a lot of services offered."

Hagnauer cited a list of programs offered including snow removal, grass cutting, garden tilling, bingo, disco dance classes and "circuit-breaker" classes for Granite City Township senior citizens.

He also noted Mayor Von Dee Cruse recently set up a committee for senior citizens. The group is budgeted to receive $5,000 for its expenses.

HAGNAUER WAS questioned by Town Board Trustee Brett Hanke concerning Hagnauer's absence at most town board meetings.

"I can understand that being a county board chairman is very time-consuming and that the salary for the office of township supervisor doesn't make it a full-time position," Hanke said.

"But I would think you (Hagnauer) would want to try to be at township meetings to answer (See SENIORS, Page 6A)

Hagnauer's hiring legal, says Schooley

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Was the hiring of Bernie Hagnauer by her husband, Township Supervisor Nellie Hagnauer, illegal? According to Township Attorney William Schooley Jr., the answer is no.

The hiring had been questioned by Town Board members Woody Moad and Brett Hanke at the regular board meeting last week.

Moad cited a section of the Illinois Revised State Statutes which says a township official may not have a pecuniary (monetary) interest in any contracts, including employment.

BUT AT A SPECIAL Town Board meeting Monday night, Schooley said the so-called "Corrupt Practices Act" has no bearing on the hiring of Mrs. Hagnauer. He cited two court cases to support his opinion.

In a 1977 Illinois Appellate Court decision, a judge ruled it was not improper for a man to serve on the school board if his wife is a teacher in that school district.

Another 1977 decision ruled that it was not improper for a mayor's wife to work in the city water department.

THE MAIN DEFENSE in both cases was the Married Women's Act. This law provides that a married woman "has the right to contract as if she were single, and a right to her earnings as her own separate property."

The citation Schooley presented goes on to say the court did not find that a husband has an "interest in his wife's contracts and earnings."

"The newspaper apparently contacted George Miller (director of the Illinois Township Association) for their information," Schooley said.

"I DON'T KNOW where he's (Miller) getting his advice, but if it's not from an attorney, he's practicing law without a license."

"I would hope in the future, the newspaper would consult with their attorneys before they go off half-cocked and make these statements."

Town Board Member Casmer Skubish asked that another opinion be rendered to the board.

"IT DISTURBS ME when things like this come out in the press," Skubish said. "I think this matter should be cleared up."

"We need another opinion — even if you have to go to the Attorney General's Office to get it."

Township 'circus' not a funny event

Everyone loves the circus. The clowns. The noise. The clapping and boos. The drama and acting. But the circus last week in the Granite City Township Building wasn't fun at all.

In fact, it was a tragedy. Democracy at its worst.

At long last, a group of senior citizens were to address Township Supervisor Nellie Hagnauer. They had complaints and for months they'd vainly tried to have them addressed. Finally, Monday, they had their chance.

And what happened? They were booed and heckled. Perhaps some of what the seniors said was unjustified. Perhaps not. But the fact that some of this community's elderly were actually booed is deplorable, as were some of the comments made against them.

One man had the nerve to say the township should not subsidize senior programs.

That comment was applauded. The elderly are on fixed incomes. The elderly are members of the township. The elderly helped build this community, paid taxes all their lives to the nation, the state, the city, the schools, the township. They fought for this country.

But let a senior citizen ask for a little help in return and someone complains about subsidizing them. Baffling.

Another person stated seniors hadn't learned from their parents not to say anything unless there's something good to say.

A new low achieved — brow-beating senior citizens for political purposes.

A little booing, a little clapping is to be expected at a political gathering where sides differ on the issues. But the meeting Monday was different.

It wasn't a matter of point-counterpoint. Disagreement with the township supervisor meant open, public ridicule for seniors.

All to the detriment of expressing honest opinions.

Hagnauer cannot be said to be at fault for that.

But those people who booed the seniors did so in Hagnauer's support. He could have asked that it stop.

But he did not.

And the show went on. And rather than a resolution to the township's problems, one that could bring both sides together, it seems the gap has widened.

Hopefully the next act will be better managed.

Two sides to a story still policy

There are two sides to every story. Including the Granite City Township story that has been unfolding over the past few months.

But the Press-Record/Journal has not always printed both sides of the story.

In our articles, we have not often talked to Township Supervisor Nellie Hagnauer.

We freely admit it.

And for it we have been criticized.

But not fairly criticized.

In the most recent case, the legality of Hagnauer hiring his wife as a general assistance employee has been questioned by a township trustee. The fact that the hiring was questioned by a township official makes it clearly a newsworthy matter and the story was printed.

In putting together the story, we talked to the township official and to a state-level township official. Their remarks raised legitimate questions about the legality of the hiring. Thus, one side of the story was provided.

We also talked to the township supervisor's wife, Bernie. That meant the story gave the other side of the story.

But that wasn't enough for us, as surely it would not be for the discerning reader. To really make the story fair, to give the reader the full picture, we had to talk to the township supervisor.

And we called him.

And he couldn't be reached.

And we printed the story without his comments, though they were wanted and sought.

Every effort to be fair and to print both sides of every issue is made by this paper.

But, you see, it is not always possible to know where some politicians stand.

We don't read minds.

Curriculum review will span 7 years

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A seven-year plan for curriculum review in the Granite City School District was approved by the school board Aug. 6.

"Historically, curriculum study in this district has taken place on an emergency basis," said Richard Brinkhoff, administrative assistant for instructional services in the district.

"STATE MANDATES, inability to purchase replacement material and strong teacher demand have dictated which subject would be studied in summer workshops.

"As a result, curriculum workshop participants have worked under somewhat of a handicap and classroom teachers could not anticipate when a subject area would be reviewed."

Brinkhoff and the curriculum committee of six teachers and six administrators formulated a plan to review all subject areas for the next seven years.

HE SAID THIS will make it easier for sample material to be obtained and reviewed, enabling the district to avoid last-minute selection of textbooks to use Illinois Textbook Loan money.

"If teachers know well in advance of a possible subject review, they will have the opportunity for greater impact," Brinkhoff said. "Programs from kindergarten through high school can be better articulated."

THE 7-YEAR PLAN is as follows: 1985-86 — A study of the pattern of achievement scores and failures in the school district, and updating and rewriting of the language arts curriculum (reading, English, spelling and writing).

1986-87 — Coordination of the kindergarten through 12th grade health and safety program and establishment of a K-12 curriculum in computer technology.

1987-88 — An updating and rewriting of the mathematics and music curricula.

1988-89 — Development of a coordinated K-12 social studies curriculum.

1989-90 — Development of coordinated K-12 science and special education programs.

1990-91 — Updating and rewriting of the art, speech and physical education curricula (K-12).

1991-92 — Development of a foreign language curriculum, a review of the needs of vocational education, and updating and rewriting of the gifted curriculum.

THE PLAN was formulated at a master planning workshop held in June.

"The six teachers and six administrators on this committee did a tremendous job, I think," Brinkhoff said. "They were a great group to work with."

Max Redmond, superintendent of schools, scheduled a board/administrator work session for Aug. 24 at 8 a.m. at the high school cafeteria.

Redmond said curriculum matters will be discussed at that meeting also. Other agenda items suggested included goal-setting and a possible community attitude survey.

Warfield insists he'll seek re-election

BY TORI WHITEHEAD

Madison County Democratic party chairman Mac Warfield said last week he will definitely seek reelection to that post next spring, despite comments by some unions that they will withdraw their support for the party if Warfield stays.

Bob Weis of Bricklayers Local 65 recently sent a letter to party officials saying Warfield has not shown the leadership necessary to create unity in the party.

Weis said his union will not purchase ads or help sell tickets for the party's annual fundraiser, the John F. Kennedy dinner, in November.

THE ILLINOIS Federation of Teachers, Plumbers Local 360 and the Southwestern Illinois Building and Trades Council have echoed Weis' sentiments.

Warfield, Granite City's superintendent of streets, caused a stir last year when he decided to run against incumbent Paul Schuler and challenger Von Dee Cruse in the Granite City mayoral race.

Schuler had the party's backing. Warfield split the block of regular party voters and Cruse won the election.

WARFIELD SAID he thinks the letter expressed the feelings of just one or two union representatives.

"I have an attorney looking at the letter," Warfield said. "We will answer it."

He would not comment further.

OTHER PARTY officials have reacted angrily to Weis' letter.

Alan Dunstan, Troy, a member of the party's executive committee, said Weis is trying to blame the entire party for Warfield's actions in Granite City.

"If Bob Weis has a problem with Mac, he should have handled it in Granite City or through the executive committee. I'm mad about this," Dunstan said.

DUNSTAN SAID he has not seen the letter, "but I hear it's pretty rough."

"The party did not give Mac permission to run in Granite City. Weis is holding the party responsible for something we had nothing to do with," he said.

Despite his opposition to Weis' methods, Dunstan said it might be advantageous if the party chairmanship were held by someone outside the Tri-Cities or other highly political areas of the county.

"THEY PLAY hardball politics, hold grudges in Granite. I have nothing against Mac, but I think we should have someone who can stay above local politics and worry about the bigger picture — getting Democrats elected," Dunstan said.

Even so, Dunstan said, Weis should have gone through party channels with his complaints.

Bob Stille, Edwardsville, also on the executive committee, said he has talked with representatives of the Carpenters District Council of Madison County and the steelworkers' union and both unions will stick with the party.

"I THINK THIS is a personal thing between Weis and Warfield. His (Weis') own particular union does not contribute that much to the dinner, anyway," Stille said.

He said Bricklayers Local 65 purchased an ad for less than $100 for the JFK dinner last year.

"Mr. Weis should have contacted Mac and ironed out the problems and not try to pull the whole party down," Stille said.

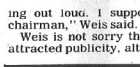

Weis said Aug. 7 "the problem lies with the whole party."

"IT WOULDN'T matter if (Warfield) was from Collinsville or Alton; he represents the whole county and he split the vote. If he can't realize that, he doesn't belong in office," Weis said.

Weis thinks party officials should have taken action against Warfield following the Granite City election.

He said when a letter requesting help for the JFK dinner came to him, Weis thought it was "time to tell them what two and two are."

HE SAID THERE is no personal animosity between himself and Warfield. "He's a friend of mine, for cry-

Student smoking to be banned by '88

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The smoking policy of the Granite City School District was amended at the Aug. 6 board meeting.

The board had voted June 25 to abolish smoking of cigarettes by freshman students at the high school for the 1985-86 school year. The no-smoking policy will be extended to sophomores in the 1986-87 year and, by the 1988-89 school year, smoking will be banned entirely at the high school.

THE DISTRICT'S smoking policy now reads:

"It is the policy of Granite City Community Unit School District No. 3 to prohibit smoking by students in school buildings and, as a part of the regular curriculum, to advise students of the dangers of smoking to their health.

The superintendent of schools is accountable for the development and administration of rules and regulations necessary to the implementation of this policy."

THE BOARD DECIDED Tuesday to add to that policy its intent to ban smoking completely in 1988.

Violations of the smoking policy will be handled according to the following procedures:

First offense — A conference with the student and a form letter sent to the parents that explains the smoking policy and penalties for subsequent violations.

Second offense — A one-day suspension. A parent or guardian must come to the school for a conference with the administration. The conference will cover the smoking policy and penalties for subsequent violations.

Third offense — A parent or guardian must come to the school for a conference with the administration. The student will be suspended for five school days.

Repeated offenses — The procedures for the third offense will be repeated, with the possibility of longer suspension or recommendation for expulsion.

SMOKING INSIDE the school building will result in an immediate five-day suspension from school. The second offense will result in a recommendation for expulsion.

Smoking violations are cumulative from year to year.

Smoking outdoors on school property outside the designated smoking area from 6:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. will result in suspensions ranging from three days to 10 days. Smoking inside the building anytime will result in suspensions ranging from five to 10 days, as will the use of tobacco products other than smoking types.

Anyone spitting tobacco residue on school property will be immediately suspended for 10 days and an administrative review will be held in regard to that student's future status.

Man receives 7th Emmy nomination

The husband of a former Granite City resident has received his seventh Emmy nomination.

John A. Martinelli, the husband of Norma Nonn Martinelli, has been nominated for his film editing work on the television epic film "A.D."

Martinelli has won Emmys in the past for his work on the films "The Legend of Lizzie Borden," "The Detection of Simas Kurdecka" and "Murder in Texas." He was also nominated for Emmys for his work on the films "Marco Polo," "The Sinking of the Titanic" and "The Winds of Kitty Hawk."

Mrs. Martinelli was born and reared in Granite City, attending local schools. She moved to California in 1959 and married her husband in 1960. Mrs. Martinelli has been seen in numerous television shows, including "A.D."

Mr. Martinelli is the son-in-law of Clarence H. Nonn of Granite City and the late Mary Nonn.

The Martinellis lived in Tunisia for nine months during the filming of "A.D."

questions. Why do we have to call a special meeting to meet with you?"

HAGNAUER REPLIED he has no function at a town board meeting.

"Anytime there has been anything more than routine bills discussed at a meeting, I've been here," he said.

"I can attend all of the meetings if it will make things easier."

Answering another senior question, Hagnauer said it is not necessary for him to meet with seniors once a month as they have requested.

"I'LL AGREE to meet periodically... when an appointment is set up by the mayor and Town Board," he said.

The concern regarding space for a senior citizen office was not addressed.

Arson, burglary suspected in fire

Burglars ransacked and attempted to set fire to an apartment at 2250 State St., police discovered at 4:40 p.m. Friday.

Ruth Rose, now residing in the 2100 block of Cleveland Blvd., reported she was moving from the State Street address and had left personal belongings packed into boxes at the apartment.

All the boxes had been ransacked and the contents were dumped on the floor. Furniture was overturned and thrown about the room. The intruder piled papers on the kitchen floor and set them on fire; they apparently smoldered for several hours but never blazed up.

Extensive damage to the interior of the apartment was reported. It was not determined if any items were missing.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED AT STORE ON THREE CHARGES

Mary W. Willis, 53, of 71 Grenzer Homes, Madison, was booked for resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and retail theft Aug. 9 at K-Mart, 3655 Nameoki Road.

Officers were called due to a fight between a woman and a security guard. Store doors had been locked to prevent the woman from leaving.

Security Officer James Billingsley alleged she had left without paying for a sweatshirt, a pull-over shirt and a pair of pants. As he pursued her, she ran into a parking area, throwing clothing articles from a purse.

He said she returned to the store with him and wanted to pay for the items, but then began yelling and making threats; when told she was under arrest, the suspect allegedly began pulling away and pushing at a police officer and then lay on the floor. Due to her age, police said, an ambulance was utilized to take her to the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

When released to police two hours later, she was taken to the Granite City Court, pleading innocent, and was released on a $3,000 recognizance bond pending a hearing.

A boy about 16 years old, with light brown hair and wearing jeans without a shirt, struck him on the left side of the face with his fist, the victim said.

Both held him to the ground and searched him. After finding nothing in his pockets, the pair ran away, getting into an auto parked across the street and heading west on Johnson Road.

Collective bargaining rights considered

By ALAN SCULLEY

Collective bargaining rights for police and firemen would be provided under a bill that is awaiting a concurrence vote of the Illinois House.

Presidents of the Collinsville firefighters and police unions say they are happy to see the bill close to passage. But they do have some misgivings on a binding arbitration clause.

THE HOUSE had passed a version of the bill last session. The Senate version of the bill is not identical, so the House must vote to concur with the Senate bill.

The measure was in jeopardy of dying on the Senate floor when Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, took over sponsorship of the bill.

Originally sponsored in the Senate by Earlen Collins, D-Chicago, Collins had been convinced by Chicago Mayor Harold Washington, an opponent of the bill, not to bring the measure to a Senate vote, Vadalabene said.

VADALABENE, at that point a co-sponsor of the bill, then made the unusual move to wrest full sponsorship of the bill from Collins. Senate President Philip Rock approved the sponsorship change, and the full Senate approved the bill when Vadalabene brought it to a vote.

Vadalabene said he is a bit upset that the House did not take a concurring vote on the legislation during the session that ended in July. He said there was adequate time for a vote.

He said he hopes a concurring vote on the measure will be taken during the veto session in October. GERRIT GILLESPIE, president of the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 103, which represents Collinsville police, said he is pleased about the bill.

Since the FOP already has collective bargaining with the city, the bill would not have a great effect here.

Both Gillespie and Ron McDonald, president of the International Association of Firefighters Local 2626, said that for the police and firefighters in communities that have no bargaining rights, the bills should be a big improvement.

McDonald noted that in those communities, a city council can vote to remove a raise already granted to police and firefighters a year after it was granted because they do not have a union contract.

Giving collective bargaining rights for these policemen and firefighters will add stability to their jobs, McDonald said. GILLESPIE said a provision of the bill outlawing strikes by police and firefighters would affect the FOP because the union's policy is to avoid strikes.

If an impasse occurs in negotiations, an arbitrator could be called in to settle the dispute. A city council can reject an arbitrator's decision by a two-thirds vote. This is a provision Gillespie and McDonald said they are not so pleased with.

Gillespie noted, however, that since the Collinsville city council has never agreed to go to arbitration before when issues seemed to be at an impasse, this provision's effect on local police may not be too great.

McDonald said he would have liked to have seen the city council veto power on arbitration removed. This provision weakens the bill over what the union would have desired, he said.

"If I had my druthers, I'd have liked the bill to be stronger," McDonald said.

Still the measure would be better than nothing, McDonald said.

APA seeks volunteers, offers free animals

The Granite City Association for the Protection of Animals is in need of volunteers to work at the animal shelter, 5000 Old Alton Road.

Jane Range, president of the APA, said workers are most needed for weekend and night shifts. She said if workers do not wish to help with the cleaning, they may volunteer to answer the phones and wait on customers.

"It's hard work, but it's rewarding," she said.

To volunteer, interested persons may call Range at 877-7073.

Range also noted the shelter is currently conducting a program that offers free pets to senior citizens. She said the usual adoption fee will be waived.

"The only requirement that we have is that the senior citizen come in person to the shelter to adopt the animal," Range said.

For more information on adoptions, interested persons may call 931-7030.

Road repairs begin soon on Pontoon Road

A contract for concrete patching of Pontoon Road to Illinois Route 203 has been awarded, according to State Senator Sam Vadalabene.

Repairs on the 5.5-mile stretch of road will be performed by Thiens Construction Co. of Edwardsville.

Arlington tap-on fees due Friday for delinquent payers

By SUSANNE INDELICATO

NAMEOK! Friday is the deadline for Arlington Heights residents to pay their fees to tap-on to a planned water system.

Residents who signed user contracts for the water system were notified in June that they should pay the remainder of the $200 user fee.

$0 FAR, the district has received 38 payments of $750 from residents who paid an initial $50 deposit. The district needs payments from another 100 residents.

"People are holding their money in savings accounts and are going to pay that last day," Water District

President Jerry Lilley said during a meeting of the district board Thursday.

Those who are delinquent on their payments, he said, would be reminded that they signed a legal contract to hook up to the water system.

TWO APARTMENT complexes still owe payments of $7,000 and $17,400, it was noted. Fees for the apartments are $1,500 per building.

The apartment owners have requested that they be allowed to make their payments in installments. Lilley said the district would try to work out a payment plan so the entire sum could be collected before the district closes on a loan for the water system.

All tap-on fees must be collected before the district closes on its loan with the U.S. Farmer's Home Administration. In addition, all plans must be drawn and approved by the Environmental Protection Agency and FmHA by the closing date.

THE DISTRICT commissioners authorized Dennis Denby, consulting engineer, to begin drawing up plans for the water system. The plans will cost the district $30,000, Denby estimated.

Denby told the commissioners the district should receive a letter of conditions from FmHA this week. He estimates the loan will be finalized 90 days after receipt of the letter.

The FmHA interest rate is 8 5/8 percent, Denby said, down from 10 percent when the district first considered an FmHA loan as a way to finance construction of the water system.

"ALL THESE delays have been a blessing because of that interest rate," Lilley said.

The water district submitted its loan application package to FmHA June 19. Commissioners expect to receive $155,300 in user fees for the system. The remainder of the $450,000 project will be paid for through the 40-year loan.

For nine years, Arlington Heights residents have been working for a water system to serve the subdivision.

The Arlington Heights Water District, formed by election in September 1982, applied to FmHA for a loan to construct a rural water distribution system.

THE LATEST FmHA loan application is the fourth for the subdivision. Previous applications were rejected or lost. When the first loan application was submitted, the project was estimated to cost $247,000.

Arlington Heights residents have sought a water system because of the high mineral content of well water in the subdivision.

Douglas revises statement about former attorneys

Charles Douglas, assistant city attorney for Granite City, said Friday he misstated a comment concerning his involvement with a court case against the Granite City Housing Authority and the city.

In the article, which appeared in the Thursday Press-Record, Douglas said he was dropping his involvement in the case before he became involved in a conflict of interest.

Douglas was quoted as saying that former city attorneys also were in-involved in conflicts during their service to the city.

The attorney said later that he meant to say some former city attorneys came upon "potential conflicts" during their terms of service to the city.

Merger allows Boatmen's in Illinois

An $8 billion banking firm with authority to operate in Illinois, Missouri and Tennessee will be based in St. Louis.

Donald N. Brandin, chairman and chief executive officer of Boatmen's Bancshares Inc., and Jack W. Minton, chairman and chief executive officer of General Bancshares Corp., jointly announced last week that an agreement in principle has been reached to merge Boatmen's and General Bancshares under the name of Boatmen's Bancshares Inc.

THE AGREEMENT contemplates a stock transaction, each share of General to be converted to 1.75 to 2 shares of the surviving corporation's common stock.

This would be equivalent to $70 per share providing the market value of Boatmen's stock at the time of the closing is within a range of $35 to $40.

Each share of common stock of Boatmen's is to be converted into one common share of the surviving corporation. The transaction would be contingent on the price of Boatmen's stock being not less than $30 nor more than $45 per share.

BASED ON a preliminary projection of earnings of the combined corporations in 1986, the potential dilution in Boatmen's per-share earnings in that year would be within a range of 5 to 10 percent.

The transaction will be subject to negotiation of a definitive agreement and to regulatory and stockholder approvals.

The combined corporations would have assets in excess of $8 billion ($6 billion Boatmen's and $2 billion General), with 50 banks operating in 150 locations in the three-state area.

BRANDIN WILL BE chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the surviving firm.

He said, "The merger will create one of the largest banking organizations in the Midwest, with substantially increased resources both to support its activities in its primary market in Missouri and to enhance the capacity of its Illinois and Tennessee operations, enabling them to make a more significant contribution to economic development in those areas."

Minton said, "The action to merge the two corporations is consistent with the movement that is developing toward establishment of larger regional banking organizations as interstate banking restrictions are lifted."

How to apply for new card

Q. I lost my Social Security card many years ago but had memorized the number. Do I have to go into a Social Security office for a new card or can this matter be handled by mail? — D.D.H.

A. You must present evidence of your identity, such as a driver's license or a state identity card. If you are foreign born you also must submit evidence of your current U.S. citizenship or alien status. You must submit original or certified documents as evidence.

You may apply either by mailing your documents and application to the Social Security office or by bringing them in person. However, you must apply in person if you are an alien whose immigration documents should not be mailed.

Q. My new wife will be 61 years old next month. She has been disabled for several years. Due to her disability is she eligible to receive Social Security benefits based upon my Social Security? — L.E.B.

A. Your wife is not eligible to receive benefits on your Social Security record because of her disability. However, she will be eligible as a wife when she becomes age 62.

Q. I was receiving disability benefits. However, when my case was reviewed I was found not disabled. I have requested a hearing. I don't think it is fair that my checks stop while my case is pending. — D.F.

A. Due to a recent change in the law, now when you appeal a decision that you are no longer disabled, you may request that your benefits continue through a review by an administrative law judge.

If you lose the appeal, you will be asked to repay the benefits, but also you have the right to ask that you not be required to do so.

Q. My husband retired at age 65 with full benefits. I started to collect at age 62 under my husband's benefit. Would I receive his full benefit if he should die? — P.S.

A. If you are 65 or older when your husband dies your widow's benefit is equal to his full amount. If you are age 60-64 at the time of your husband's death, then the widow's benefit is reduced. Contact your local Social Security office for additional information.

Beer market going to imported brands

The day is coming — if indeed it is not already here — when talk of beer will focus on the mystique of a very good year. Were the hops blessed by nature's hand? Can the barley crop promise a worthy nectar?

Good, bad or indifferent — only the brewmaster may know for sure. Beer, for all its blue-collar tradition and mass-market blandness, has come of age. Brewed in a variety of ways, with care and sophistication designed to appeal to an increasingly discriminating consumer, it may even be considered the wine of the '80s.

"It's following in the footsteps of wine," insists Bob Bridges, a brewmaster who contributes to the All About Beer publication. "Beer is where wine was seven or eight years ago. Because of different wines, our palates are sophisticated. We're demanding more than the traditional American lagers."

Indeed, statistics supplied by the National Brewers Association indicate that imported beer consumption in the United States has jumped 24 percent over the past three years. Its national share: 4 percent.

The traditional domestic lagers, on the other hand, have either declined or remained stable — flat, as the beer merchants are wont to say — in sales over the last three years.

Noting this trend to the imports, San Diego-based Vienna Importers Inc. has introduced a new beer into the American market: Gold Fossil Vienna Lager, a product of Vienna's 150-year-old Ottakringer Brewery.

The beer — a deep, rich lager that will retail between $4.59 and $4.95 per six pack — also is being distributed in Phoenix, Ariz. By 1987, say the importers, it will be available nationally.

Bridges compares the trend in beer consumption to that of automobiles. The foreign market is making inroads, he says, because the domestic market is not giving the consumer enough options.

The future of beer, Bridges suggests, is with food. "Think of beers with food," he said, "for the nuances you find in wine." There is an appropriate style, he suggests, for each course — a wheat beer, for example, with appetizers; an ale with the entree, a porter with dessert. Heavy beer for heavy food, lighter beer for lighter fare.

"There are many different styles," he said. "A smoked beer, for instance, is dynamite with barbecue or lamb."

Imports provide the greatest choice, and they're not, say the connoisseurs, to be sloshed down like an American low-calorie beer. Nor are they designed to be consumed ice cold.

"Get the aroma," suggests Bridges. "Swirl it in the glass for the bouquet. Inhale, then exhale through the nose. Gulp it down and enjoy it."

There are taste sensations, nuances, to be savored. Let it breathe. Let it sit. Let the nuances prepare to emerge.

Unlike most domestic beers, imports such as Gold Fossil are sold exclusively in bottles. "Beer is always better from a bottle," said Bridges. "After four weeks in the hull of a ship, with no air conditioning, glass is more protective."

Gold Fossil enters an import market dominated by Heineken, the Dutch brew introduced to the United States 50 years ago. Its importers point to the fact it was rated the No. 1 lager beer among 1,350 brands tasted by a 45-member panel whose evaluations were published in the "Connoisseur's Guide to Beer," by James D. Robertson (Jameson Books, $11.95). Gold Fossil achieved a ranking of 82 out of a possible 90, compared with 65 for Heineken and 62 for Beck's, 54 for Corona and 24 for Molson Golden — four of the more popular foreign imports.

(The top-rated brews in the blind tasting: Prior Double Dark, brewed by the Adam Scheidt Brewing Co. of Norristown, Pa., and Kulmbacher Schwarzerhofbock, a German beer, both with 87. The fabled Pilsner Urquell of Czechoslovakia — considered state of the art among lagers — was assigned a surprisingly low 65.)

Gold Fossil contains 3.99 percent alcohol for the American market, down from the 4.2 it carries in Austria and the 32 foreign countries to which it is exported. Were it to exceed 3.99, it would have to be labeled an ale according to U.S. regulations. Its ingredients, conforming to the Bavarian purity law that prevails in Europe, are water, barley, yeast and hops. Calories? Probably more than 150 for 12 ounces, said David Hubbard, president of Vienna Importers.

"Most European beers," said Hubbard, "contain 10 to 15 more calories than their American counterparts."

Czechoslovakian hops and spring water from the Austrian Alps are used along with malted barley in the Gold Fossil brewing process. It is aged two to three months in oak casks before being exported.

Coors, by comparison, is aged 49 days and Budweiser one month, according to the "Connoisseur's Guide to Beer." Some beers are aged no longer than a week, said Hubbard.

While one's knowledge and taste in wine often are linked to social status, the same soon may be true of beer.

Sausage broil

Today's lifestyle demands convenience, good nutrition and fine taste. Natural sausage broil has them all. It is easy to plan, prepare and serve. Even clean up is not a problem because there is only one pan to wash.

2 lb. mild Italian sausage
2 cans (14 oz.) artichoke hearts
1 lb. fresh mushrooms
1 green pepper, cut into strips
1 (16 oz.) bottle Italian salad dressing
18 cherry tomatoes

Marinate artichoke hearts, mushrooms and green pepper in Italian salad dressing two hours to overnight.

Place sausage on broiler pan or grill. Broil on one side 5 to 8 minutes.

Turn sausage over. Add marinated artichokes, mushrooms, pepper and tomatoes to pan or broil on skewers. Return to heat. Cook another 5 to 8 minutes, or until sausage is done and vegetables thoroughly heated.

Serves 6.
Note: Substitutions may be made with a favorite natural casing sausage and other vegetables, such as green beans, asparagus and onions, as desired.

Husk reveals corn

To choose corn, strip back the husk a bit. Look for all kernels to be developed to the tip, in even-numbered rows; for moist green hulls; for glossy, even color; and for a stem end that yields to light pressure and is not woody or dry. One kernel can tell corn quality. Light pressure with a finger makes it pop like a full balloon. If the milky juice is watery it shows immaturity; if very thick, excess age.

Entertainment

Johnny Cash at Fox Theatre Aug. 20-25

Johnny Cash, with special guest June Carter Cash, will appear at The Fabulous Fox Theatre Aug. 20 through 25.

Cash has sold more than 50 million records in his career. By his own count, he has received three platinum and 10 gold albums in the United States alone, notwithstanding the dozens more of each type received in many other parts of the world.

He has been awarded four Grammy Awards and four Country Music Awards, including the CMA's Entertainer of the Year honor. Cash's famous concert repertoire includes "A Ring of Fire," "A Boy Named Sue," "Folsom Prison Blues," "One Piece at a Time," and his best-selling single, "I Walk the Line," which was on the charts for 43 weeks.

Cash's list of motion picture and TV credits is formidable. He has been a guest or hosted on all of the top variety TV shows such as "Saturday Night Live" and "Late Night With David Letterman." An ABC-TV special, "Ridin' the Rails," depicting the history of the American railroad, was a landmark in the documentary field for not only its historical value but entertainment value as well.

He is currently working on a multi-year series of specials for CBS-TV, including not only musical but dramatic products, such as a much heralded story about literacy in America entitled "The Pride of Jesse Hallam."

June Carter Cash is best known today as an integral part of "The Johnny Cash Show" and as Johnny's wife.

Music and performing have been an important part of her life since childhood. Her mother, Maybelle Carter, was one of the original Carter Family which began recording country songs in 1927.

Mother Maybelle has been recording ever since that time and, thus, has enjoyed the longest continuous recording career in the history of the industry. She is called one of the world's finest guitar and autoharp stylists and taught June the ins and outs of the instruments when she was young. As a child, June, along with sisters Anita and Helen and Mother Maybelle, performed regularly on radio stations in Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, Missouri and Mexico.

Tickets are available at the Fox Box Office located at 527 N. Grand Blvd., St. Louis, and Famous Barr and Dillard's Ticketmaster locations.

Travel

Question: What can travel agent do for me? Answer: Plenty!

If you're among the thousands of Americans who still attempt to make their own travel arrangements, you've probably discovered that traveling isn't what it used to be.

Airline deregulation has turned the industry upside down. Changes in flight schedules and fares are occurring at a mindboggling rate. Special incentives are being offered by hotels, cruise lines, airlines and tour operators to attract travelers of all shapes and sizes — families, singles, older people, and business executives. The travel industry is stretching our imagination too, by suggesting we visit exotic destinations that previously were inaccessible by virtue of cost or distance.

You need a computer and a week's time to figure it out — or a travel agent, one of the last truly great bargains.

What does a travel agent do? That's not an easy question to answer. Travel agents vary as widely as the services they provide. They have been described as "everything from psychologist to financial advisor to entertainment director."

With the one-two punch of travel industry deregulation and slimming travel budgets, using a good travel agent makes more sense than ever. And despite the ravages of inflation, most travel agents still don't charge consumers for their services. They are supported by commissions from travel suppliers, such as the airlines, hotels and cruise lines.

A lot has changed since the travel agent first appeared on the scene in the early 1900s. For one thing, there were a lot fewer people traveling to a lot fewer places. Prior to 1930, most trips were by steamship to Europe or to the Orient.

By the 1933 Chicago World's Fair, vacation tours by train were becoming popular. Railroads weren't allowed to book tours themselves, so travel agents filled the void. A round trip journey to the Chicago fair from Washington, D.C. cost $49 in 1933, including a week's lodging and admission to the fair.

Air travel didn't play a major role until the 1950's, with international travel entering the scene around the end of the decade. At that time, most traveling was done by an elite group that could afford the time and expense of a lengthy trek through foreign lands.

But today's travel agents do far more than book luxury vacations. Increasingly, travelers are turning to travel agencies for more routine travel needs. From business trips to weekend getaways. With the help of sophisticated computer systems, agents can sort through a maze of fast-changing airfares, for example, or book a flight, hotel room and rental car in one fell swoop.

Among other things, computers increase agents' flexibility, allowing them to provide more personalized services for an individual or business. Also, a growing number of travel agencies create their own tours, as opposed to merely selling seats on other travel operators' tour packages. In many cases, agency tours focus on a specific geographic area.

Working with a travel agent can also protect you from financial loss. A program sponsored by the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA), the association for professional agents, provides at least a partial reimbursement to travelers who book tours through operators that later go bankrupt. For example, ASTA's Tour Payment Protection Plan protects travelers under two conditions: The tour must have been booked through an ASTA-member agent, and the tour operator must be a subscriber to the program.

ASTA's Consumer Affairs Department will also help resolve other kinds of problems that may occur en route or at your destination. Among problems they assist with are: refunds, cancellations and failures to receive accommodations.

Travel agents do a lot of "homework" to be able to counsel their clients about everything from new resorts to menu changes at popular restaurants. Agents spend between a fifth and a third of their professional time researching and keeping up-to-date, whether it's simply reading the realms of trade publications, memos, training guides and vacation brochures — or actually visiting hotels and tourist attractions.

In the end, their research time saves travelers time. Moreover, the exhaustive notes some agents take during their travels on everything from the quality of hotel service to airport ambience serve as truly unbiased opinions, giving travelers access to information beyond that found in glossy travel brochures. ASTA agents also offer a number of free brochures to help travelers with their own research and planning, including: "Fifteen Travel Reminders From ASTA," "Cruise Safety" and "Packing Tips." The brochures are available through ASTA World Headquarters, 4400

MacArthur Blvd., N.W. Department 12, Washington, D.C. 20007 or from your local ASTA travel agent.

Spain is steeped in the old-world charm

By Tom McDermott
Special To The Journal

I had my reasons for returning to Spain. My first visit had lasted only three days - part of your typical first-time "cram in as many capitals as possible" sojourn, which numbs more than informs. Secondly, four years of tutelage in Spanish under rigorous results would insure that my conversation with the natives would go beyond "Excuse me, where is the water closet?" Finally, it's so brazenly inexpensive there. I shall never tire of $5 hotel rooms, $4 taxi rides to the airport, and delicious $3 dinners, all of which I found in Spain (with some work you could find cheaper, but hey - I'm a big spender). In Europe, only Portugal is cheaper, and Spain is the more accessible of the two. Average daily expenses here will be about half of those in Britain or one-third of Scandinavia's, even if it's not your prime destination, a sidetrip to Spain is a good way to tack on extra days in the Old World, and at the same time avoid bankruptcy court.

As I majored in art as an undergraduate, I had a ready explanation for heading straight to Madrid this trip: the Prado Museum. It holds one of the three or four most celebrated collections of paintings in the world and is Madrid's major sight. As admission is less than $1.50, I spread my pilgrimages to the shrine over three separate mornings; this gave me ample time to casually ruminate over the immense number of works by Goya, Velazquez and El Greco, as well as the lesser amount of Bosch, Bruegel and Rembrandt masterpieces. Lots to digest, but if you've room for dessert, a subsidiary nearby museum, the Cason del Buen Retiro, has Picasso's monumental "Guernica" on display.

Madrid's only other major sight is the Palacio Real, a majestic structure which resembles our White House both physically and functionally. Don't spend all your time indoors, however. The essence of Madrid is found on her streets - some elegant Parisian boulevards, some crepuscular and gaunt, all of them smoggy, crowded and vibrant. A bewitching spectrum of humanity inhabits these avenues: cosmopolites, gypsies, soldiers, vendors of exotica. And there are more of them all the time, for Madrid is an ever-expanding city.

While I eventually trekked down to Andalusia, a wholly satisfying Spanish vacation can be had using Madrid as a base for day trips. Renfe, the Spanish National Railroad, is pretty wootful, but the trips described below are only two or three hours away and, of course, cheap - $3-4 one-way. There are also bus tours, easily arranged through many hotels.

Toledo is the most popular of these trips, one of the most touristed cities in Spain. It's not hard to see why: set high on a hill, free of 20th-century druck (no Burger King here), it's an architectural marvel, crammed with monuments, churches, synagogues and mosques.

El Greco (Domenico Theotocopolis - "The Greek") lived here and has become forever linked with the town. You'll find his paintings everywhere, including the colossal Cathedral, the Church of San Tome and the Museo de Santa Cruz. As with Madrid, much of the fun comes simply perambulating the streets, labyrinthine and cobblestones in this instance.

Should you decide to spend a night or two in Toledo, accommodations shouldn't be a problem, as most tourists head back to Madrid before night falls. While the whole of Segovia is pleasant, individual sites are the key attractions. The Alcazar (fortress) is especially fine - a fantasy Spanish castle perched precipitously over a lush pasture. I met a guard there who laughed out loud at my Truman Capote-like fedora. Laughter translates into any language I suppose, and so do funny hats.

Running through the middle of town is one of the most well-preserved Roman ruins the side of the Coliseum, an aqueduct 30 meters high and 2,700 feet long. And then there's the ubiquitous massive cathedral. Most of Europe's larger cities seem to have an awe-inspiring cathedral on display, but Spain's seem especially imposing; chunkier, more solid than their svelte French and English counterparts.

Seniors tour East

Friendly Neighbors/Whitecliff 50 Plus Club will travel to the East Coast Sept. 16-27, via motorcoach, for 11 nights and 12 days. Highlights will include Biltmore House in Asheville, N.C.; two nights at Myrtle Beach, S.C.; three nights at Williamsburg, Va.; Busch Gardens and Norfolk Naval Station; three nights at Philadelphia, Pa.; Longwood Gardens at the Dupont Estate and a day at Atlantic City, N.J. This tour includes many attractions and sightseeing tours, along with 12 meals at a cost of $59 per person, double occupancy. For more information, call 631-1571.

Canoe Capital of the Ozarks
CALL US FOR "COLLEGE DAY" SPECIAL RATES

This one is late Gothic. Other potential daytrips include visits to Avila, a town set against the Sierra de Gredos mountains which has the best-preserved surrounding walls of any European city; El Escorial, dominated by a forbidding monastery 500 feet wide and 700 feet long; Aranjuez, referred to as "Spain's Versailles" because of its layout and proximity to the capital; and Burgos, home of El Gid and yet another whopping cathedral.

You'll be famished when you return to Madrid after any of these adventures. I hadn't much time to sample the diversity of Spanish cuisine (not much like Mexican cuisine, by the way), but I did glean a few culinary insights. Paella resembles jambalaya, with some mixture of fish, chicken or peppers (no boudin) on a plate of rice. Gazpacho was one of the most unusual concoctions I'd ever drunk - a soup of ground cucumbers, tomatoes, peppers, and onions in vinegar, olive oil and garlic, served cold. Best of all were tapas - snack-sized portions of seafood, meats and vegetables - washed down with beer or wine as you stand at the bar talking to a senior or senorita, trying to recall those troublesome verb endings. The more wine and tapas I consumed, the less I could communicate, but it didn't matter much; Madrid and its environs are enjoyable if you're mono or bilingual, inebriated or sober.

Robins too tough for Chiefs; sweep two games

By JOE THOMPSON
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — It was any consolation to the Inter-City League's youngest team, the Granite City Chiefs, their +40 lead through three innings made the League's best team think it was tied to a track with a fast train approaching.

Quick, someone get a pair of scissors, and let's put some soul back into the music.

This was the Brooklyn Robins the Chiefs led in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday at Wilson Park, the team with two pitchers who combined have been on this earth 105 years — most of the time fooling young batters with their pitches.

The Robins didn't even need their top hurler, Larry Reed, who at age 30 is a virtual toddler on this staff where even Ronald Reagan might find a spot in the bullpen.

The Robins, however, did need the hitting muscle of LeRoy "Moon" Woolridge, who was leading the league with a whopping .538 batting average as of last Thursday. He showed why in the first game, knocking in five runs with a triple and home run.

It was somewhat of an unusual game for the 26-year-old, who sells carnival supplies for a company in St. Louis. "The only thing (unusual) about this game is I usually have three hits. But I didn't get but two," Woolridge said.

Could he possibly have been complaining? This was the Robins who entered the twinbill with a 24-3 record, and who had already clinched a Red Division title. They also were 25-3 last year in Inter-City play.

The Robins rolled to a 12-0 victory in the first game of the doubleheader, when hurler 52-year-old Ray "Satch" (as in Paige) Tolliver put the Chiefs to sleep on two hits — both on the infield — and allowed only one ball hit in the air, a pop up the shortstop grabbed in

Tolliver is remarkable at two years past the half century mark. Owner of a lounge, liquor store and laundromat in St. Louis, Tolliver is easy talker, and with a smooth, underhanded throwing motion that makes the ball twist and turn, is an easy thrower.

"Are you a pitcher?" he was asked by an officer, as Tolliver tossed the ball around with the tryout hopefuls. "How do you know that?" Tolliver said he answered.

"By the way you throw the ball," I said. "Yes," Tolliver said. "I wanted to make the ball team. I didn't give a damn what (position) I played at. And I've been pitching ever since."

When Tolliver was finished pitching for the day, the Robins' sent Wendell Johnson out to pitch the second game. At 53, he's even older than Tolliver, a non-smoker and virtual teetotaler ("the only thing I drink is a can of beer. And the only time I drink that is after a win," Tolliver said).

Unlike Tolliver's underhanded delivery, Johnson whips the ball toward the plate in the overhand conventional style.

The Chiefs found it to their liking:

They scored a run in the second inning on their first solid hits of the day — bashes by Pat Cathey and Rick Takmajian and a sacrifice fly ball by Mark Bowen.

The Chiefs scored three more times in the third. Bashes by Kevin Patterson, Bill Dalton, Takmajian and Matt Roe (whose single scored the fourth run) accounted for the scoring.

The songs blaring out from the tape players brought to the game by the Robins might have been recorded by James Brown and other artists, but it could have been interpreted as the opening bars of "Taps."

"I was excited," said Chiefs' pitcher Dominic Griffin, a budding engineer at Rolla and probably the team's top hurler.

"Hey, I can't really explain it," Robins' manager Clyde Thomas said, before explaining how he did feel with his team trailing for one of the few times this season. "But I was scared to death. Let's put it that way."

Someone got some scissors. The Robins were rescued. They won going away, 12-4. Yes, someone did turn the music up.

"Maybe we should appeal the music," said Chiefs' catcher Matt Roe, who turned 17 Aug. 1 and who distinguished himself by putting out one early Robin inning rally with a throw to second catching a runner trying to steal.

Roe shook his head. "They get that momentum going, and it's hard to stop them."

There was an appeal. Not by the Chiefs, but by the Robins. It had nothing to do with music.

When the home plate umpire agreed to the Robins' appeal in the fourth inning to kill a Chief rally and swing momentum their way, it did put soul back into the songs.

The successful appeal turned the game around.

Here's what happened: The Robins had scored two runs in the fourth inning — one on Woolridge's second triple of the afternoon — to cut the lead in half. But the Chiefs' threatened to again widen the gap when Patterson and Dalton reached base on two out singles.

Dennis Gurkin, Jr. was at bat. Before the Chiefs' third place hitter could take a swing, Johnson wheeled and threw to first base where it appeared the ball beat Dalton back to the base for the third out.

The base umpire, however, ruled safe. This brought manager Thomas racing out to the field in protest.

After a few minutes of heated words, Thomas appealed the play to the home plate umpire — who overruled the base umpire's decision and called the runner out. End of scoring chance.

As it turned out, that was the last scoring chance, as the Robins belted in four runs in the fifth, three in the sixth and four more in the seventh. The play led to three innings when the music didn't die.

"We lost fire after that," said Chiefs' manager Dennis Gurkin, Sr., noting his team got just two hits after that. "I thought that was the pivotal play."

"It was probably the turning point," Thomas agreed.

The play put a double dose of damper on the day for the Chiefs, who despite seeing their record drop to 8-17 have qualified for the playoffs with a lock on second place in the Blue Division.

"My main complaint," Gurkin said, "was the way they (the Robins) came on the field trying to intimidate the umpire. It looked like they did."

"They're the best team in the league. I think they're so good, they don't need to do stuff like that."

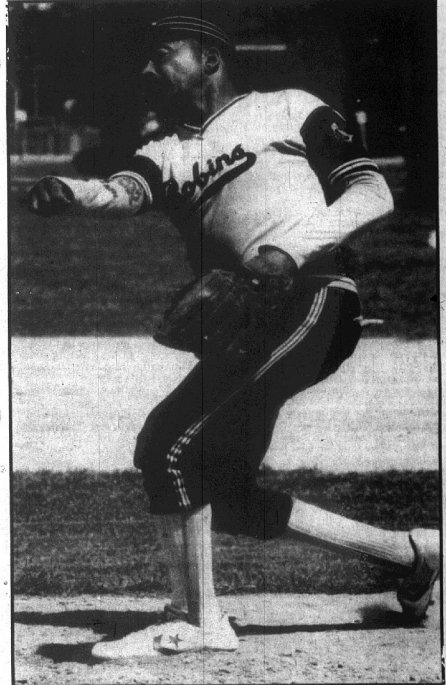

"It got my dandruff up," explained Thomas. "I might have been a little unfair to the (base) ump. But, he missed it. He really didn't get a good view of it."

The Robins finished with 26 hits — 13 in each game. A bunt by Rob Chapman and an infield roller by Gary King were the only two hits in the first game for Granite City. Roe led the Chiefs' 10-hit attack in the second contest with a single and triple.

Patterson, Takmajian and Bill Dalton also had two hits while Gurkin and Cathey each had a hit. Cathey made the Chief's best defensive play with a diving catch in centerfield.

Doss sparked at shortstop for the Robins.

GRANITE CITY — I had the story all figured out. I was writing about what it is like to attend an Inter-City baseball game. It was tentatively titled, "The Inter-City League Experience."

Like I say, I had it all figured out. I would point out that baseball played on this level is a true expression of our national pastime, the way Abner Doubleday envisioned it those many years ago when, with ruler and tape measure, he set the bases 90 feet apart and the pitching rubber 60 feet from the batter's box.

Those who play in the Inter-City, or any amateur baseball league, never threaten to go on strike. Why should they? Not only do they not get paid, but they pay the salaries of the umpires.

You've got to love them. They pay just to play. That's how much it means to them to spend a Sunday afternoon tossing the ball around and knocking it into the outfield gaps.

Crack! And there she goes... I was right. Baseball is mom and apple pie in the Inter-City. But Sunday afternoon where the Granite City Chiefs squared off against the Brooklyn Robins, I discovered there was a lot more to it.

I asked Dominic Griffin, one of the Chiefs' top pitchers, if he had prayed at church that morning for his fastball to hum and his curve to nap.

Dominic is 20. The dream of one day playing and getting paid for it has long passed.

Dominic gets paid by Olin Brass in Alton, where he works in administration. He is a sophomore at Rolla, studying engineering. He attended Mass at 10:30 a.m. that Sunday.

His brother sang hymns and his sister played the organ. But Dominic's prayers weren't about beating the Robins.

"No, nothing like that," he said with a laugh. "I guess I was hoping to go pro. I would. But I'm just out here to have fun. I do my best. I try to do my best. I try to win."

Chiefs' designated hitter Harry Dale was also trying to win. When the Chiefs weren't successful in the first game, Dale hopped on his motorcycle — the kind you might see in a movie — and raved away. His exit was like something you might see in a movie, or a TV series.

"Just call him Streethawk," said Chiefs' player Mill Roe. Harry is a very interesting person, and a welcomed addition to the Chiefs. He was probably on his way to Alton, where he works as an engineer operator. It was his job which brought him to this area. Harry, who is 24, originally is from Jackson, Miss.

Of course, he probably changed his shirt before checking in at the office. Written on the back was "All World."

Harry has two years experience playing professional baseball at the Class A level. He had hoped to make it to the big time and big-money with the New York Mets. It turned out, however, he made a mistake.

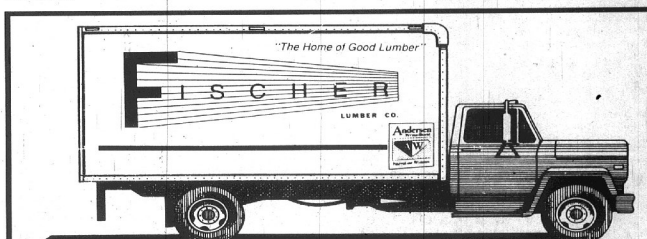

You see, he's also an outstanding football player, but left the sport and school at Jackson State College to chase his boyhood dream, the way one might chase after a Jack Clark "tweener."

"I should have stayed in school and played football," he said. "I could have been playing pro football right now."

The only baseball Harry plays these days is in the Inter-City League. He was turned loose by the Mets. He's now making his pitch in the USFL.

We know the steepest to the National Football League hopes to be at the dance next fall. Harry just returned from a Memphis (Showboats) mini-camp.

Lady Luck frowns on racing Seebold family

By GREGG CHOIA
Journal Sports Editor

FENTON, Mo. — They came into the race as the hometown favorites. They escaped with their lives.

The powerboat racing Seebold family — Mike and Tim — each tested disaster over the weekend at the 14th Annual Busch World Championship Grand Prix at George Winter Park in Fenton.

Meanwhile their father, Bill Seebold Jr., the sport's biggest name, and the elder member of the Bud Light racing team was not involved in an accident, but was forced out of the race due to mechanical problems.

His boat's nosecone had fallen off, thus causing the engine to violently overheat. It forced Seebold to drop out of Sunday's final. Bill Seebold was the defending world champion in that class. However, he failed to complete 30 laps of the 50-lap final Sunday.

All in all, it wasn't a good weekend for the racing Seebold family, who have roots in Granite City.

It was the first time in four years, that a family member had not won the Champ Division at Winter Park.

The bad luck began on Saturday when Tim, 21, flipped his boat during a qualifying run of the Mod VP class. Tim Seebold, Bill Jr.'s son, had to be rushed by helicopter to a nearby hospital. However, it was later announced that he only suffered a mild concussion.

The following day, Mike wiped out his boat during a qualifying heat of the Champ Division. He was thrown from the boat, but fortunately Mike wasn't seriously hurt.

"I'm disappointed to say the least," said Mike Seebold who finished second here last year to his father. "We have had so much bad luck this weekend."

In the Champ Division (17-foot boats with 900 horsepower engines), Florida's Mickey Garrett pulled away when Bill Seebold started to fade and won by a full boat length over Steve DeSouza. Michael Werner of West Germany was third.

In the Mod VP Class, Chris Bush won his second straight title. Bush of St. Paul, Minn. also won both of his 15-lap heat races on Saturday.

It was really no-contest for Bush, who is Mod VP defending world champion.

"Everything ran great and you can't ask for anything more than that," Bush said.

In the SST 140 Class, Harley Wilson took first place. He, too, led all the way from in all of his three heat races.

Tim Seebold, the youngest member of the racing family, considers himself one lucky racer in as much as he wasn't seriously hurt. "I trimmed the front end a little and it popped up off the water," said Tim. "The wind was blowing hard and it flipped."

His accident marred the opening day of racing at the Busch World Championship Grand Prix.

"For a while I really didn't know where I was," Seebold said from his family's racing headquarters in Fenton, a couple of miles from George Winter Park.

Racing boats with 200 plus horsepower on a tight course does have its dangers, but Seebold said once he straps himself in all he focuses on is racing.

"I don't think about what happens if I flip over," he said. "You can't. You know it's there, but if you start to think about it you might race a little less cautiously and that's not good."

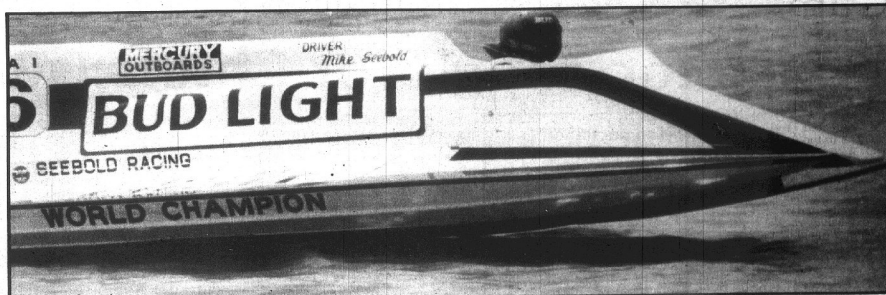

After his spill Tim was feeling well enough to watch Sunday's racing. He witnessed Bill's mishap.

"It was rough out there, but sometimes that's the way it goes," he said. "While Tim was unmarked, his boat was a fatality."

"I'm just going to get another one and not try to even fix it," Seebold said.

Mike Seebold took second in last year's Champ Division race, one year later he never made it to the finals, after flipping his boat in the 11th qualifying lap of the second heat.

At 26, Mike Seebold has been racing for 12 years. In that time he has had several close brushes with

In 1982 Mike's boat was toppled by heavy waves and he was run over. He sprained both ankles and needed 30 stitches to repair a deep gash across his chin and right cheek.

He came back. Mike is a survivor. The day after his accident at Winter Park, Mike was taking it easy, but also plotting his next outing.

"I'm a little sore," Mike said. "I got banged up and I think pulled some muscles in my legs."

Mike says he still doesn't know how it happened.

"It was a freak thing," Mike said from his home in St. Louis. "There was nothing I could really do about it. I hit some weird water and the boat just hung on me and went."

Mike Seebold can't explain what happened to his racing family over the weekend. He's just glad it's over with.

Mike said he will relax for awhile before his next race.

"I don't think what happened will bother me," he said. "Now when I was hit in '82 that had an effect. I had to think hard whether I wanted to come back."

Seebold hopes the future is bright. "I think we had enough bad luck over the weekend to last us 10 years."

CF Classic

set for Aug. 19

The 16th Annual Jack Buck-Cystic Fibrosis Golf Classic will take place Monday, Aug. 19, at Norwood Hills Country Club. "The annual event is held to raise funds for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation," said golf chairman, Dan Reilly of Peat Marwick and Mitchell.

"The mission is to find a cure and treat children and young adults with Cystic Fibrosis. The proceeds will go to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and for education to increase public awareness of the symptoms which include a salty taste of the skin, poor weight gain, recurrent wheezing.

Cystic Fibrosis is responsible for killing more children than any other inherited disease in this country. There is no cure for CF, nor is there a test to identify the approximately 10 million symptomless gene carriers that hold the CF gene.

Festivities begin with lunch on the patio followed by 18 holes of golf. The day will wind up with the players party where Jack Buck, as campaign chairman will present the coveted five-some winners with their award, along with the prizes for a hole-in-one and closest to the hole. As a grand attendance prize, there is a trip for two to Paris, France on TWA.

The golf tournament, which has raised $800,000 during the last 15 years, is a major fund raising event for the Foundation.

For further information, persons should contact the Cystic Fibrosis office at (314) 721-2499.

Game Report: Better season for Bobwhite Quail, Pheasant

SPRINGFIELD — Hunting and trapping seasons and regulations this fall will be similar to last year's, according to Michael Witte, Department of Conservation Director.

"Season lengths and harvest limits are based on wildlife census data collected by our wildlife biologists in the field and other factors," Witte said. "The census data indicates a decrease in the cottontail rabbit population, and an increase in the quail and pheasant populations. These population fluctuations may affect hunter harvest rates, but are not extensive enough to warrant altering the upland game season length or bag limits."

Witte said population levels for the other wildlife species are stable in Illinois and hunters and trappers should notice little change in seasons or hunting regulations. The Department's proposed hunting season dates and regulations recently were endorsed by the Conservation Advisory Board. DOC expects approval of the federally controlled migratory waterfowl hunting regulations in a few days.

As last year, the state will be divided into two zones with slightly different seasons for upland game. The 58-day upland game season will run Nov. 9-Jan. 5 in the northern zone and Nov. 16-Jan. 12 in the southern zone. U.S. Route 50 is the dividing line between zones.

Shooting hours for upland game are from sunrise to sunset.

"When we had a single upland game season for the entire state, many hunters felt the season came in too early in the northern zone and ended too early in the southern zone for good hunting," Witte said. "Dividing the state into two zones for upland hunting alleviates this concern. Last year was the first year upland hunting was zoned in the state, and both wildlife managers and sportsmen were pleased with the way the system worked."

Bag limits and possession limits for upland game animals are the same as last fall. Rabbit hunters are restricted to a daily bag limit of four and a possession limit of eight. The daily bag limit for quail is six, with a possession limit of 12. Pheasant hunters may take two cock pheasants daily and be in possession of four. The bag limit and possession limit for Hungarian partridge also is two and four, respectively.

Upland game is the mainstay of Illinois outdoor sportsmen. DOC biologists expect upland hunters to enjoy a better season for pheasant and quail than last year due to population increases for those species. Census data shows a 48 percent increase in the breeding population of bobwhite quail and a 37 percent increase for ring-necked pheasant.

This population increases are expected to translate in better hunting success rates this fall.

Cottontail rabbit, on the other hand, appears to have declined by about 10 percent. DOC wildlife managers expect a fall harvest of about 1,194,000 cottontails — About 161,000 fewer than were taken in the 1984 season. While the rabbit harvest is expected to be down, the biologists say it will be substantially better than the lean years of 1979 and 1980.

As usual, the squirrel hunting season will open Aug. 1 in the southern squirrel hunting zone and Sept. 1 in the northern zone. The season ends Nov. 14 statewide. The squirrel zone boundary follows U.S. Route 36 from the Indiana line to Springfield, Illinois Route 29 from Springfield to Pekin, Illinois Route 9 from Pekin to Dallas City, and then goes due west to the Mississippi River.

The bag limit and possession limit for squirrel, the same as last year, is five and 10, respectively. Shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset.

Furbearer hunting and trapping seasons are similar to last fall's. Witte said. Hunters may shoot raccoon and opossum in the northern furbearer zone Nov. 13-Jan. 13, and Nov. 25-Jan. 23 in the southern zone. Red fox and gray fox may be hunted statewide Nov. 25-Jan. 31, and coyote and skunk can be hunted statewide throughout the year.

The furbearer zone boundary is U.S. Route 36.

Shooting hours for furbearer hunters is unrestricted, Witte noted. However, the seasons are suspended Nov. 15-17 and Dec. 13-15 for the firearm deer hunting season.

Trapping season for muskrat, mink, opossum, skunk, weasel and raccoon is Nov. 13-Dec. 29 in the northern zone, Nov. 25-Jan. 8 in the southern zone. Red fox and gray fox may be trapped in the northern zone Nov. 25-Dec. 29, and in the southern zone from Nov. 25-Jan. 8. The coyote trapping seasons corresponds to the fox trapping season: Nov. 25-Dec. 29 in the northern zone, Nov. 25-Jan. 8 in the southern zone.

The beaver trapping season runs Nov. 13-Feb. 28 in the northern zone and Nov. 25-Feb. 28 in the southern zone. However, those portions of Jo Daviess, Carroll, Whiteside and Rock Island counties which lie west of Illinois Route 94 and U.S. Route 20, from Interstate 80 north to the Wisconsin line will be open for beaver trapping from Nov. 15-Dec. 29 only.

There is no bag limit or possession limit on any of the furbearing species. However, all traps must be tagged and all hides must be sold within 10 days of the season's close.

Early migratory bird hunting seasons set by the Department are subject to federal approval, Witte said. The seasons for this fall are as follows:

*Dove: Sept. 1-Oct. 30, shooting hours from noon to sunset, bag limit of 15, possession limit of 30.

*Quail: Sept. 1-Nov. 9, shooting hours from sunrise to sunset, bag limit of 25, possession limit of 25.

*Woodcock: Oct. 1-Dec. 4, shooting hours from sunrise to sunset, bag limit of five, possession limit of 10.

*Snipe: Sept. 7-Dec. 22, shooting hours from sunrise to sunset, bag limit of eight, possession limit of 16.

*Teal: Sept. 7-Sept. 15, shooting hours from 7 a.m.-4 p.m., bag limit of four, possession limit of eight.

Other hunting dates confirmed by the Conservation Department include a fall archery turkey hunt Oct. 1-Dec. 31 with hunting hours from sunrise to noon and a bag limit of one turkey. The season will be closed Nov. 15-17 and Dec. 13-15 for the firearm deer hunting seasons.

Hunters may hunt woodchuck June 1-March 31 from sunrise to sunset, or trap them June 1-Sept. 30. The hunting season, with shooting hours from sunrise to sunset, is closed for the two weekends of firearm deer hunting. There is no bag limit for woodchuck hunters or trappers.

Two crow hunting seasons are set July 1-Aug. 15 and Dec. 15-March 1, with shooting hours from sunrise to sunset and no bag limit.

USEFUL. "It couldn't be folded yet, as far as I know. They still called me up."

Harry plays cornerback and free safety. He also runs the 40-yard dash in "4.4-4.5." That's fast.

At least Harry got to play baseball in college. More specifically, at least he got to hit. Daris Davis, another Chiefs' player, never had that opportunity. "You might remember the 'just turned 28-year-old' Davis. He pitched for Granite City North High before graduating in '84."

He had been working for a computer airlines company in Florida, but a strike brought him back to the area. He described himself as delighted, fascinated, to again play baseball in the Inter-City League. At least here he gets to hit as well as pitch. At Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville where he attempted to make the team as a walk-on hurler, he got the chance to pitch, but not hit.

"I go up there to hit," Davis recalled, "and he (SIUE baseball coach Roy Lee) says, 'a Davis, come back here.' I says, 'what's the deal?' He says, 'we don't let the pitchers hit.' I said, 'oh, you got to be kidding.'"

The Cougar coach wasn't. "The third day comes by and he (Lee) said, 'well, we need a third baseman. Our third baseman didn't show up. Is there anybody here who can play third base?'"

"I said," said Davis, "I do. I'll play anything but catcher."

"I thought," Davis said, "This will give me a chance for me to get in there and hit the stinking ball."

Davis' chance came in the third inning.

"I was walking into the batter's box, and he (Lee) said, 'Davis, come back here.' I said, 'well, I'm playing third base.' He said, 'yes, but originally you were a pitcher.' I said, 'but I'm playing third base. Give me a break.'"

Davis never did get to bat. The school never will know how good a hitter it might have turned away.

But we do know how fast Nellie Hagauer and Von Dee Cruse whipped a softball in toward home plate. We know that because Eldon Smith tells us so. He was there.

Eldon is 58. He moved to Granite City about five years ago. He played baseball in the Inter-City League many, many years ago. He played third base for the Alton Chiefs and against the likes of Babe Champion and Dal Maxvill.

He also played fast-pitch softball. That's where he met up with Township Supervisor Hagauer and Granite City Mayor Cruse. Both were pitchers.

"Von Dee was pretty fair," said Eldon, but not as good as Nellie. Nellie was one heckuva pitcher. He'd get a new ball. You'd have to take a bottle cap, rough up the ball just a little bit for him. He had little bitty ole short fingers, but man could he hum that thing."

Hagauer wasn't the best fast-pitch softball. That distinction belongs to the late Max Leggett.

"He was tops," said Eldon reverently. "He was the best pitcher to come out of Granite City."

At the moment, some other players from Granite City — maybe not the city's best — were doing what Eldon and his friends did all those years ago.

"It's in my blood, I guess," said Eldon, looking on this bright, Sunday afternoon, still a captive. "It's something that's hard to get out of your system."

He didn't seem to mind a bit that he couldn't.
